LEETONIA GRID TILT O.K.'D BY SALEM BOARD

Post-Season Engagement Scheduled Here Thanksgiving Day

LEETONIA'S BOARD TO ACT THURSDAY

Quaker Rivals Undefeated To Date In Best Season In Years

Members of the Salem board of education last night placed their official approval on a Thanksgiving day football game between Salem and Leetonia teams, to be played Nov. 20 in Reilly stadium.

The decision to play the Leetonians was made by the board at a meeting which developed little other business of importance.

Officials of both schools have conferred on the proposition and detailed plans now are expected to be formulated for the encounter which is expected to attract one of the largest crowds of the season to the stadium.

Members of both football squads have been interviewed and are reported as being anxious to have the game played.

Leetonia Board to Meet
The Leetonia school board will meet Thursday night to make a final decision on the game with Salem. The Leetonians also are scheduled to play Newell, W. Va., in a "Potter Bowl" close at East Liverpool Nov. 15.

The request came to the Salem board to agree to the "Turkey day" game with Leetonia came from the Leetonia High school principal J. L. McBride. Regular admission prices would prevail, net receipts being split on a 60-40 basis.

Leetonia has an outstanding football team that has walked over most of its opponents. Salem, under the tutelage of its new coach, Ray Overturn, has proved that it has a squad with unusual fighting spirit, although not successful in all of its encounters to date.

The school board last night also discussed plans for completing improvements to the heating system of the Prospect school building.

A E. Beardsmore, chairman of the water committee, reported that little progress had been made towards reaching a settlement with city council on the water issue. The city has been billing the schools for water while the school board contends that the two wells which the city operates in the Garfield water field on the High school grounds are owned by the school.

Leave Is Granted
The board granted the request for Mrs. Marie L. Roth, mathematics teacher at the Junior High school, for a temporary leave of absence due to ill health. She expects to return at the start of the second semester.

B. G. Ludwig, principal of the high school was appointed as a trustee of the Salem city school district library to serve the unexpired 1939-40 term of H. M. Williams, former principal.

Permission was granted to the Salem High school association to use the Municipal auditorium on Nov. 19 for a union Thanksgiving service.

The board authorized Supt. E. S. Kerr to replace nine old typewriters with new ones in the High school typing class.

Lowellville Man Killed In Argument Over Woman

YOUNGSTOWN, Nov. 4.—Edwin Kravack, 33, of Lowellville, was shot to death yesterday afternoon in a roadside fight just east of the city limits of Struthers, Mahoning county deputy sheriffs reported.

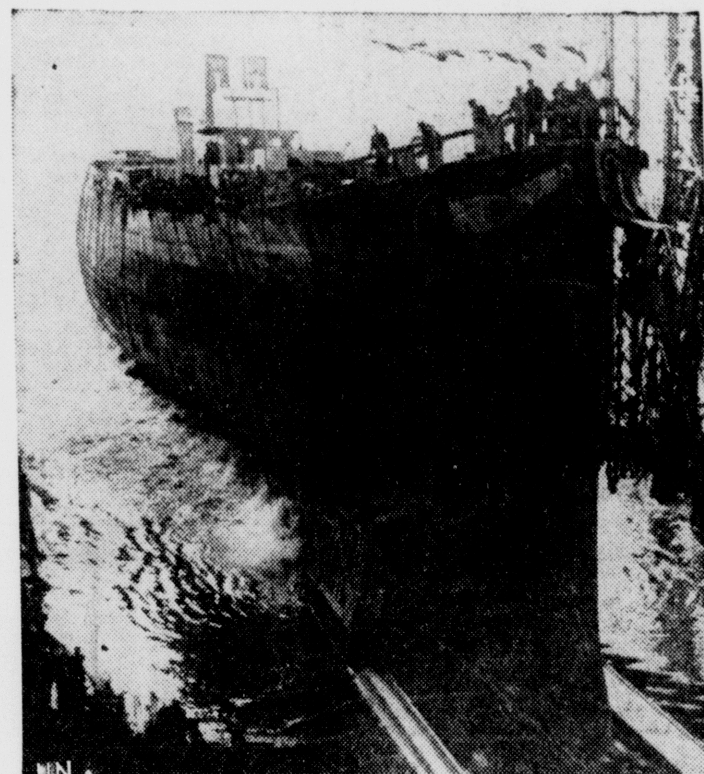

Deputies are holding a 58-year-old man, pending a report of Coroner David H. Hauser.

Lacking witnesses to the shooting, deputies could learn only that the fight began over a woman whose identity was not revealed.

Bicycle Licenses Ordered In Lisbon

LISBON, Nov. 4.—The village council voted approval last night of an ordinance to license bicycles.

The law will become effective Jan. 1, requiring all bicycle owners to pay 50 cents for the metal tags which must be attached to the vehicles. The licenses will be issued by the police department. Many of the licensees are expected to be issued in groups to the school children.

The bicycle riders will be called upon to observe all the traffic regulations which motorists must follow.

The action licensing bicycles has been considered by council for some time and was brought into the open again following the recent death of a youthful "bike" rider here.

Council also voted to erect a traffic signal light at the intersection of N. Beaver and N. Market streets to replace a "blinker" type light which is now in operation at that point.

N. RANDALL FACES BALLOT DISPUTE

Six Election Booth Officials Are Replaced In Village

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, Nov. 4.—Six election booth officials at North Randall were replaced today by the Cuyahoga county election board as a result of a dispute over 28 absentee ballots cast in the town's first mayoral contest in 31 years.

Thomas M. Carey, deputy clerk of the board, declared "We just weren't satisfied with the way things were out there, and we didn't want any question to arise from the way the election is conducted."

Secretary of State John E. Sweeney last week asked the election board not to count 23 to 26 of the absentee ballots. Supporters of Mayor Gertrude Penty, seeking to retain her $2,400-a-year job, asked an investigation by the secretary of state, contending the absentee ballots were cast by employees of Thistledown race track who are only part-time residents of the village.

Mrs. Penty, wife of Justice of the Peace Myron J. Penty, is opposed by J. O. Brown, village council president, and Thistledown track superintendent.

Clyde Lee, identified by election board officials as one of the track employees, had filed a writ of mandamus in the court of appeals in an effort to compel the board to send out ballots for the 23 track employees. Lee contended the power to pass on the ballots lies with the village election booth officials.

NOON BALLOT COUNT SHOWS BIG DECREASE

Unusually Light Total of 903 Recorded Here This Morning

FAILS TO COMPARE WITH 1,216 IN '39

Two Precincts, However, Reveal Slight Gains Over 1937 Noon Counts

An unusually light vote of 903 was reported at noon today in the municipal balloting, although election day could have had no fairer weather until then, at least.

The noon tally was far below the 1,216 record set at noon in the general election two years ago, and still under the 1,015 reported at noon in 1937.

Two precincts, however, disclosed noon votes slightly above their similar reports in 1939. In Precinct D of the First ward a total of 105 votes had been registered at noon today, against 91 two years ago. Precinct C of the Second ward had 52 votes at noon today, just one better than its tally in the last municipal election.

Reports in some other precincts showed differences of as much as 35 votes in comparison with the noon checkup two years ago. Little voting was evidenced in 1-C and 4-E as compared with past records. Voting in Perry township was believed to be average.

The comparative noon vote is as follows:

Precinct A	73	42
Precinct B	64	55

WEST WINS WINGS AT BROOKS FIELD

As a fitting climax to his sever, and one-half month's adventure as an aviation cadet in the army air corps, Alden E. West of 511 E. Second st., was presented with the coveted silver wings and gold bars of a lieutenant at his graduation from the air corps advanced flying school, Brooks Field, Texas, last Friday.

West, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. O. West, has completed what has been termed a "$25,000 scholarship in the world's finest flying school." The final phase of the air corps training program, accomplished at Brooks Field under the direction of Lieut. Col. Stanton T. Smith, gives the flyer a thorough training in the art of formation flying, instrument flying, interception problems, and day and night cross-country besides an intensive ground school program.

Snow Latter Part Of Month Is Forecast By Copeland

No snow until the latter part of November is the prediction of District Weather Observer L. H. Copeland of Millport, who, in his summary today for the month of October, notes also that farmers need two more weeks of good weather to complete their fall work.

October came to a close with only one melancholy day, the observer said. The countryside was beautiful, with the trees aglow with colors of crimson and gold. Temperatures and rainfall were above normal.

Wheatfields became mats of green, in excellent condition for the winter. A good corn crop is half in the crib. The wheat growth at this time last year was small.

The year of 1941 produced 136 growing days, slightly under the average of 145 days.

The mean temperature last month was 3.4 degrees, compared with 49.9 degrees a year ago. The high was 85 and the low 26. The maximum last October was 80 and the minimum 21.

Rainfall last month measured 3.74 inches, against 72 inches in October, 1940.

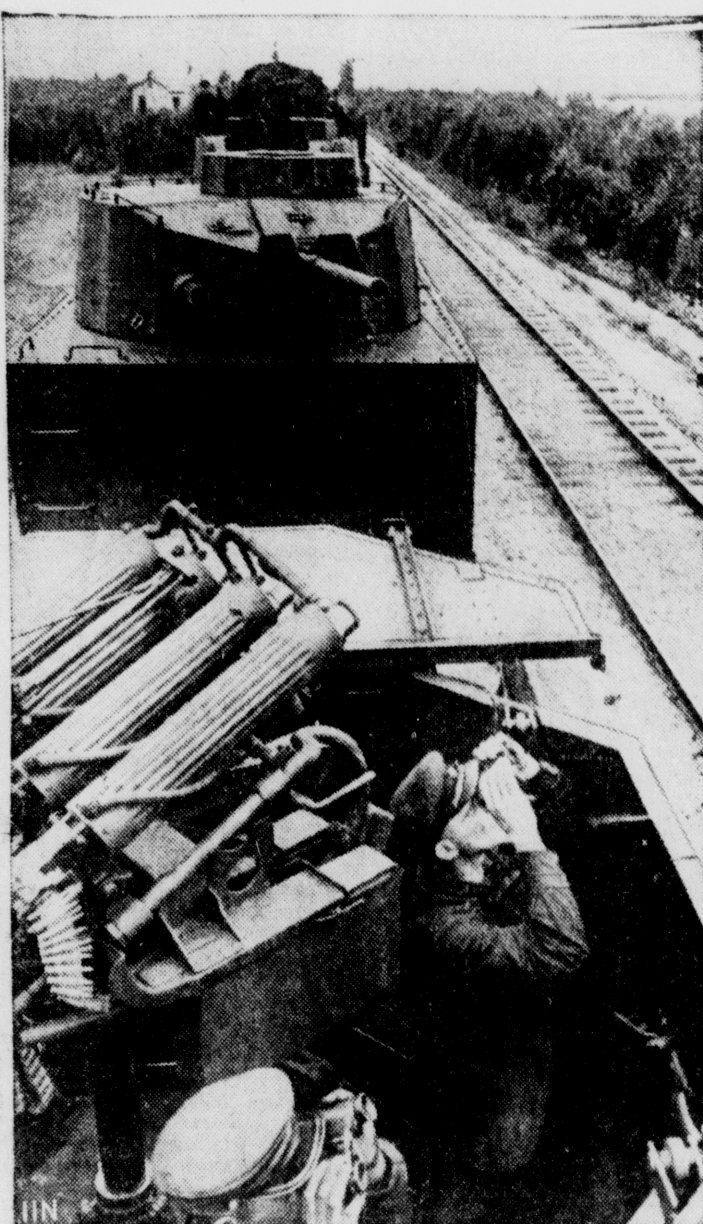

Copeland foresees plenty of moisture for November and below normal temperatures, with snow coming towards the end of the month.

The first killing frost occurred Oct. 26, the observer's records show. The average date of the first killing frost is Oct. 4, based in a 48-year average. In the year 1917 a killing frost came as early as Sept. 12, and on Sept. 27 in 1936.

Auroras were noted by Copeland on the 30th. Thunderstorms were noted on Oct. 6, 7, 8 and 14.

The year 1919 produced the warmest October on record, with a mean temperature of 56.8 degrees. The coolest was in 1925, with a 43.8 reading. A total rainfall of 7.01 inches gave October, 1917, the claim to the wettest October to date. The driest was in 1924, with only .08 inches precipitation.

BRITISH CAPTURE FIVE VICHY SHIPS

LONDON, Nov. 4.—British sailors have intercepted and boarded five Vichy French merchantmen and prevented the scuttling of three of them in an action which "is still proceeding" off the south African coast the admiralty announced today.

It charged the French with attempting to convey contraband supplies for the Germans from the east, presumably the Indian ocean or the Orient.

At the same time a night battle in the English channel was announced in which the admiralty said patrol vessels engaged the escorts of a strongly protected Axis convoy.

In the latter battle, the British said they shot two torpedoes into a large supply vessel, probably sinking it or causing it to be beached, probably damaged some of the Axis escorts, and in return suffered slight damage to one of their own patrol ships.

Crews of three of the five French ships intercepted off South Africa attempted to scuttle in compliance with German instructions, the admiralty said.

The communiqué said "the Vichy government has recently been attempting to run contraband for Germans from the east to France in escorted convoys."

STEALS GASOLINE, DRAWS FINE OF $100

Sheely, a steel worker, was caught in the act of siphoning "gas" from a state-owned roller along Route 14, near Columbiana, Sunday by Corp. James E. Bower and Patrolman Herbert Krogh who happened along at the time.

Stricken Ship Reaches Port Without Loss

Salinas Torpedoed Without Warning, Is Terse Navy Report Today; 16,800-Ton Vessel In Convoy When Attacked

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—The navy announced today another torpedoing in north Atlantic waters—that of the United States naval tanker Salinas—but said that happily there was no further loss of life to add to the 97 men presumed lost on the sunken destroyer Reuben James.

The Salinas was "torpedoed without warning," a terse navy statement said. Seriously damaged, she made her way to port.

"No details of the damage will be released as it will be of no value except to the Nazis," the navy said in disclosing that the tanker was hit last Wednesday night southwest of Iceland.

This was one day before, and in the same general area where the Reuben James, first American warship to be lost in the battle of the Atlantic, went down.

The 16,800-ton Salinas was in a convoy when attacked, the navy said.

Counted also as victims of the ocean warfare were 12 more navy men killed in the crash of a big patrol bomber somewhere at sea.

The tanker was built by the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co., for the U. S. Shipping board in 1920.

Commissioned in 1921
It was transferred to the navy and commissioned Dec. 16, 1921.

The navy described the vessel as being 16,800 tons displacement with a complement of 107 men.

It is 463 feet long with a beam of 60 feet. The ship is armed, carrying two 5-inch guns and a battery of anti-aircraft guns.

The vessel was the fourth United States warship to be involved in a torpedoing incident in a period of two months.

The shooting started Sept. 4 when the Destroyer Greer encountered a submarine southwest of Iceland and the sub fired two torpedoes at the destroyer but both went wide.

The Greer counter attacked with depth charges but there was no evidence the U-boat was hit.

On Oct. 17 the Destroyer Kearny was torpedoed by a submarine which the navy said was unquestionably German. Badly smashed, the Kearny suffered losses of 11 aboard.

97 Lost In Reuben James, 12 More In Bomber At Sea

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—The navy gave the nation a grim accounting today on the cost of the battle of the Atlantic—97 men probably lost in the torpedoing of the destroyer Reuben James, and 12 more killed in the crash of a big bomber on patrol somewhere at sea.

The destroyer's heavy losses shocked the capital which had been waiting anxiously since Friday for news, but the navy indicated it did not expect the total to diminish.

"The navy department," a communiqué stated, "holds little hope for the rescue of the seven officers and 88 (enlisted) men who have not been accounted for."

Two Are Dead
Of those accounted for, two were dead. The body of one was recovered from the sea after the Reuben James went down somewhere west of Iceland the night of Oct. 30-31. The other sailor died after being rescued.

The known survivors totaled 45. Eight were injured, but only one was reported in a serious condition. The casualties of the Reuben

James were made public shortly after midnight, intensifying the impact of the earlier disclosure that one of the Atlantic command's huge bombers had been lost with all aboard.

Killed in the bomber crash were two navy officers, nine enlisted men and an army officer who was described as a passenger. The navy's statement said the wreckage of the COLUMBUS, Nov. 4.—"Probably lost" was written today opposite the names of five of seven Ohioans believed aboard the torpedoed U. S. Destroyer Reuben James which went down in the North Atlantic the night of Oct. 30-31.

Fireman Roy Virgil Bush, 18, Ashtabula, and Machinist's Mate Joseph Hajoway, 21, Akron, were rescued uninjured, the navy reported.

Also believed aboard were these Ohioans: James Brantley Clark, 20, electrician, Akron; C. C. Hayes, 19, seaman, Akron; Herbert Burrell, 18, Cleveland; Carl E. Cooperider, 21, seaman, Bucyrus; Corwin Porter, 21, gunner, Wauson. Porter was not definitely known to have been aboard because of an injury he had received earlier.

ship had been found and it was understood that the bodies had been recovered.

The bomber had been missing since mid-morning Sunday, the department announced, but withheld information for the present on the location of the crash, the type of ship and other details.

While there was nothing official on the subject, it was hinted broadly that the plane probably was one of the navy's long-range PBV patrol ships, which have been serving as the eyes for the surface fleet operations.

KIDNAP SLAYER IS QUICKLY CAPTURED

FULTON, Ill., Nov. 4.—Four hours after the body of five-year-old Warren Snyder was found in a desolate section on the outskirts of Fulton, Leo Jordan, 23, of Fulton, was charged with his murder early today.

Whiteside County Sheriff Roy Crook said Jordan confessed killing the boy by slashing his throat with a razor blade.

Sheriff Crook said Jordan admitted luring the boy away from his playmates to a lonely spot and made an improper suggestion. When the boy refused, he said he placed his hand over the boy's mouth to keep him from shouting, slashed his throat and fled.

AND THE SENATE DRONED ON

It is a striking fact that when the United States senate received news of the sinking of the Reuben James a non-interventionist member was getting ready to make another speech. Out where the people live it's far from plain just what the neutrality debate's about any more, as far as that's concerned.

It would not seem to matter two whoops now whether the United States decides to put a few guns on its merchant ships and let them sail where they want to under their own flag, or whether it wants to crawl in a hole and pull in the hole after it. Adolf Hitler doesn't share the tender regard of non-interventionists, isolationists and whatnot for the shreds of the peace-by-alcoholism credo. It's getting sort of hard to take stock in alcoholism when an American warship can't operate in the western half of the north Atlantic without dodging torpedoes.

Germany's strategy calls for isolating the two English speaking civilizations from each other. It is not a question of the United States being able to sail safely in part of the Atlantic and unsafely in the rest; it never was. It is a question of the United States sailing in any part of the Atlantic if that happens to interfere with German plans for making the world say, "Onkel!" The great difference between the Germans and their opponents in this war so far has been that the Germans were playing to win the war and the other fellows were playing to keep the peace, but Adolf and his master-minds now are coming up against something they haven't thought much about since the last time the Germans played for double or nothing. When it comes to playing for winning, Americans have quite a little reputation of their own to maintain.

It takes them awhile to get things organized, a fact most of them can admit without lapsing into a fit of despondency. Their legislators have to talk themselves out, their minorities have to put in their last good looks, and all that takes time. But it's not inexcusable, just a little irritating. When it becomes inexcusable to look at both sides of everything in America, then as far as most Americans are concerned Hitlerism would be about as good as anything else; they don't intend to let that happen.

For some reason or other, Americans never quite get accustomed to the idea of doing things the American way. It always shocks them to see what they look like in action, like a pup who spies himself in a full-length mirror. The fashion at the moment is to rant and rave because the senate is behaving like the senate, instead of a reichstag packed with party goons. It's also somewhat of a fad to look at the fact the United States hasn't been able to overtake the rest of the world combined in war material production in the course of 18 months and duck with consternation.

It's even customary to behave as though no one ever had heard of a strike before, or remembered the Wobblies and Anarchists who were the fore-runners of the stuff that crawls out of the woodwork these days and scares loyal patriots half out of their wits. Almost everything that has happened has happened before. It's almost like reading an old novel a third of the way through before realizing that it had been read 20 years ago. Even the senate droning on is as assurance that nothing has changed much. The debate was ended, not by foremen but by facts, but it will take a few more days for the debaters to get abreast of events.

NEXT BEST

With the skepticism that comes from finding out that most things in wartime aren't what they look like, it may be legitimately doubted that invasion of the continent by Britain is as remote as the British say it is. Perhaps the authorities who should be consulted about the possibility live in Berlin, instead of London.

Certainly if an invasion were forthcoming, the British wouldn't be likely to talk about it, except for the purpose of misleading the enemy. It isn't likely they would take pictures of their equipment and set the date and place in public. They would be more likely to dismiss the idea as absurd and let the Germans wonder about the quality of British candor.

Since it also seems likely that by this time German spying in Britain is tougher than it was when the war began, the island having been isolated from the continent for two years, the possibility of an invasion that doesn't materialize is next best to the real thing—perhaps even better. The only purpose that could be served by an invasion would be to divert German troops from the Russian battlefield, and that purpose, or most of it, can be served by keeping an equivalent number of troops in suspense waiting for the possibility.

It being evident, also, that the British would be foolish to strike at the strongest point, the whole possibility of the invasion move might better be considered in terms of what would happen if the blow were struck in Italy, which is one of the weaker points and recently has been made no stronger by a series of British bombing raids.

WITHOUT VIOLENCE

The aspect of the federal government's seizure of the Air Associates Inc. plant at Bendix, N. J., which has prior claim on attention is the absence of violence. As was the case when federal troops took control of the North American Aviation Co. plant at Inglewood, Calif., and the Federal Dry Dock and Shipbuilding Co. plant at Kearney, N. J., order was restored as soon as the government's decision to act became known.

One other fact about the Air Associates incident that will be given special notice by those trying to understand what is entailed in plant seizures by the federal government is this: The immediate violence precipitating the seizure occurred when non-union workmen manhandled union workmen trying to return to their places in the plant under mediation board reinstatement orders.

The government's action, taken in the name of assuring continuous production of materials needed for defense, cannot possibly be construed as being against the interests of organized labor. Like a similar action at the Federal Dry Dock and Shipbuilding Co. plant, the immediate effect was to help a particular gain a point which it had not been able to gain in the process of negotiation.

In many phases the novel or peculiar may take form, either in character manifestation in work or professional labors, in science, invention or unusual research may give spur to the ambitions. But while this originality and independent thought may be profitably launched there is every danger from treachery, duplicity, subtle opposition or sinister plots or schemes. Keep free from entanglements and heed the intuitions.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year in which the unfathomable and unpredictable may come to light. This may be in strange adventures or in the expression of original talents, inventive genius in novel or spectacular discoveries which may incite enmity and jealousy of the most sinister forms. Cancer of the breast is more frequent in the Northern states than in the Southern states. And among the Negro population, cancer of the breast is more frequent in the northernmost southern states than in the southernmost. Peterson believes these and other statistics indicate that changes in climatic front and weather zones have a marked influence on illness.

A map of the United States showing the tracks of storms is an interesting study in comparison

Electricity and also refers to the state of acute irritability and outbursts of anger that such days induce in some of the population.

Effect of Warm Weather:
Warm weather produces a relaxation of blood pressure. At-

was the incidence of disease. By "storms" is meant changes in barometric pressure, which move across the continent. The health resort regions of California, Arizona and New Mexico are almost without these storms summer and winter. Mills believes that where the storms are most frequent, men's energies are released at a higher level.

Steady cold and steady hot climates tend to produce a depression of human energy. Continuous perfect weather without storms becomes monotonous, and finally depresses man. The effect of the tropics on the endocrine glands, the great regulators, is depressing. Cramer states that in a white man resident in the tropics the secretion of adrenalin practically ceases, and that the substances which under normal circumstances would be converted into adrenalin accumulate in the blood and are converted into pigment, which may be a factor in the skin coloring of tropical races.

CHAPTER THIRTY-FOUR

Mrs. Rider couldn't keep Jane at her side. She was downstairs again, and she was steady, her hair pulled back, looking from her eyes.

"I'm off to the Givens, Mother," she said. "They won't mind if I go. I'll be back in an hour or so."

"You're thinking of that Sunday they had minded her mind?"

"No, Mother. I'm thinking of the Sunday they had minded her mind."

"No, Mother. I'm thinking of the Sunday they had minded her mind."

she exclaimed. "Get in. But if you dare hurt my Timmy!"

Grouch got in humbly, curling up beside her, and her eyes were clouded with tears. For the papers she had found in that little desk exposed the Givens—and Kurt Helm.

Why, they weren't real Americans at all! They were—could they be—Fifth Columnists of which the newspapers published so much! She had the evidence in the notations, the lists, the first draft of Helm's so-called lecture. She had the proofs in other pamphlets she had found in that desk: such as a copy of the one Helm had taken from her the night of Charlie's murder—and burned.

Now she was somewhat afraid. The Givens would know she knew. Kurt Helm would know. Beside her Grouch whined.

Jane said, "I didn't feel like working, Mother." She hid the papers under a vine. They wouldn't be safe in the house. She stood later on the lawn, watching Timmy and Grouch playing in the twilight.

Then Jane saw Kurt Helm. He walked slowly across the road, his green eyes narrowed on the Givens dog.

"The Givens just telephoned me, wondering where Grouch was," he said, smiling at Jane. "They were so sorry to be out when you came, this morning. You went there, didn't you?"

"Yes," Jane admitted. "Come in, Kurt." She moved nervously toward the house.

Kurt said, "I thought, for a change, you and your mother would have tea with me." Before Jane could protest, he was in the house and out with Mrs. Rider beside him. "I've taken so much from you," he said, his narrowed eyes and smile on Jane.

"Mother," Jane began. "I'll do us both good, darling." Mrs. Rider walked on, her arm caught in Kurt's.

Jane followed slowly, staring up and down the road. There was no one in sight. The two dogs scampered after them; stopping at the rim of the road in a growling quarrel over a twig.

David stood at Lawyer Garrison's desk in the library. He was worried sick about Jane. She'd hung up on him earlier in the day, when he telephoned her.

"I've got to go out and see the Riders. You don't need me here now." His face looked haggard against the fiery disorder of his hair.

Richard Garrison, too, usually so immaculate, showed signs of deep strain. "I understand how you feel," he said.

"I've got to go," David repeated. "Just a moment." The older man motioned for silence. Sometimes Garrison wished that, after the last war, he had attended strictly to his legal practice, enjoyed his wealth and friends, instead of volunteering for special service. Yet he had felt strongly then—and still did—that America would always, unofficially, need men of his established connections—out of uniform.

David leaned forward, pressing his hands on the polished surface of the desk. "Look, Mr. Garrison, there's a killer loose, and he has the documents Charlie wanted you to have. You don't believe, do you, that Fan murdered Mat Breanu and invented all that stuff about Sweitzer coming in and grabbing the envelope?"

"I believe it so little that I bailed her out, and have her in this apartment for protection," Garrison said gravely. "McGuire is on guard, and she has her maid with her." He went on faintly smiling. "Doremas is here, too. Poor man, he loved Breanu! He didn't know anything about the gun-running game."

David's voice sharpened. "That's not the point. I think the man who wrote those letters to Charlie, which Fan gave me for you, is the one to look for. Probably Sweitzer. Don't forget those barred number sevenes he used—crossed like a sort of gailows. Suppose he's run to cover in Jane's part of the country? Suppose—"

Garrison said slowly, "It couldn't have been Breanu. I know his handwriting. But Mat barred his sevenes. That isn't unusual." He took up a pencil, and absently traced on a pad, a row of sevenes with a slash across their stems.

He wasn't seeing the sevenes. He was seeing Charlie's vivid laughing face; remembering that month ago, before she vanished, she had said to him, as they danced: "Would you die for a cause you didn't believe in any more? Because you found it was a wicked cause?" If he had only insisted then that she tell him more clearly what she meant!

David shifted restlessly beside the desk. "Believe in hunches or not, Mr. Garrison, I've got one. Jane is in danger. I talked to her mother again, after Jane had gone off to her job with some people called Givens—friends of Kurt Helm's. She's driving alone in her car—yes, the one in which we found Charlie's body. Suppose Sweitzer—"

Dick Garrison was listening tensely now. "Helm? You never told me Jane was working for friends of his. The Givens—the Givens?" He rapped his fingers on the desk. When he spoke again, his voice had changed to urgency. "Go straight out there. Take my car. It's in the courtyard. I'll send word down to the doorman."

He got up; put his hand out to David. "I've been blind," he said. "Hurry, my boy!" He gave over his driver's license and a small card. "If you have any trouble with the cops, flash the card," he said.

As David rushed for the door, Garrison called him back. "Take that gun I lent you."

"I don't need a gun," David grinned.

Richard Garrison went back to his desk, his eyes chilly. He pulled his telephone over to him. He didn't bother to dial. "Give me Bardonia. Rockland county headquarters of the troopers," he ordered.

Garrison's was an open car, and it took the roads like a swallow, dipping, turning, climbing. David's mouth was hard, as he raced onward. It would have been pretty good to have old Bill Wright beside him.

The air was pungent with burning leaves. October twilight crept in. The lights in windows made him vaguely homesick. It was growing cold. With one hand, David drew up and buttoned the collar of his brown topcoat, and jammed his hat on. . . . Perhaps somewhere ahead of him on the road, Jane sped for home. If only he knew where these Givens people lived!

He'd probably give me the gate, he thought bitterly. But a sense of excitement mounted as he took South Mountain road; wheeled toward New City, and turned into the soft dirt country road which led to the Riders.

David slowed down. At this supper hour—it must be six by now—there should be lamps in the windows of the farmhouse. The short road seemed deserted. But ahead he made out the inkly form of another car with no lights on. He edged nearer; stopped short; got out of the car, and advanced on foot.

His shoulders straightened, and his spirits rose. What a boob he was! They must have gone out to supper. Nevertheless, it was a shock to see the house unit, crouching in the icy evening.

David glanced at Kurt Helm's log cabin, opposite. Wisps of smoke dissolved above the chimney. And, through the branches of the trees, David saw a vague glow. So at least, Helm was home.

Then David heard a sound that halted him as he was about to walk over to Kurt's. It was a scratching and a whimpering which undoubtedly came from behind the Riders' front door.

Timmy, the pup—shaggy little Timmy whom they never left alone!

David ran up the path, unreasonable fear in his heart. The whimpering grew louder.

The door was locked. David ran around to the other side and tried the kitchen door. It opened. He switched on the kitchen light, stared. Littered over the table were carrots, celery, potatoes, some of them already peeled and in a pot of water. A cold leg of lamb had been dragged to the floor, the plate broken, and something was burning in the stove.

A frenzied, wagging pup flew into the kitchen, rolled over at David's feet, eying the roast which he, Timmy, had gone after when no one fed him.

"Timmy, where's Jane?" David's voice broke. Mrs. Rider never would have left things this way.

Timmy wriggled and got up, his broad head tilted, his shaggy ears cocked. He was a little dog, lonely, and afraid; his eyes tried to tell his friend.

David followed Timmy into the living room. In the big rock fireplace, logs had split to glowing embers. This Monday's Nyack paper was flung on the couch. There was an account of Mattia Breanu's suicide. The headlines questioned, "Does this solve Charlie Breanu's murder?"

"Jane!" David shouted. "Jane—"

No one answered.

Timmy whined, tugging at David again. He wanted David to go upstairs. And David's heart seemed to swing through space. He followed the pup.

LITTLE CHATS ON PUBLIC NOTICES

By J. E. Pollard, Journalism Professor, Ohio State University

Official Newspapers

To the layman an official newspaper is apt to mean one which contains news of an official nature and is published under official authority or sanction. Sometimes, as in the case of city bulletins, this is so. But in most instances it is a local newspaper of general circulation which has been designated as or has otherwise qualified as an official newspaper. By so doing it becomes an authorized medium for public notices and other forms of so-called legal advertising.

Not every publication that looks like a newspaper and claims to be one qualifies for, in fact, can every bona fide newspaper meet the tests for an official newspaper. More than a score of specifications are fixed by law. These vary with the states and with the kind of public notice or other official advertising concerned. In all cases, however, the purpose is the same: to give due notice in the widest possible manner so that those whose rights are affected by the proposed move or action may take heed.

Bona fide general circulation, paid circulation, local news coverage, admission to the U. S. mails as second class matter, and local publication are among the most common qualifications required. It is important that the spirit as well as the letter of the law is complied with in such matters. Only in this way can the full purpose of the law be met.

1 In one of today's new C/P—Certified Performance—Gas ranges you can broil in 3 different ways. One is the searing method, used so often for rare steaks. You simply set the heat control at "high." The meat from one to three inches from the flame.

2 Then there is the constant temperature method approved by food authorities. Heat control is set at "high," meat placed from three to five inches from the flame. This gives you a medium or well-done steak with minimum shrinkage.

3 The third method permits you to place the meat close to the flame and to broil at between 350° and 500°. This method can be used when you are broiling at the same time you bake. It gives a minimum of shrinkage and either a medium or well-done steak.

TELEPHONE UNION ASKS WAGE BOOST

Authorizes Strike Nov. 14 Unless Defense Board Takes Action

(By Associated Press)

Fifteen thousand long lines telephone workers reinforced their demands for wage increases today by authorizing a strike Nov. 14, but their union president said the walkout would be cancelled if the dispute was certified to the defense mediation board.

John J. Moran of Pittsburgh, the president, served notice that the strike, if carried out, would tie up long distance wires, civil and military, as well as national radio wire-hooks and the transmission of photographs by wire and Teletypewriter News Services. It would affect 42 states—all except Vermont, New Hampshire, Washington, Oregon, Nevada and Montana.

Moran's union—the Federation of Long Lines Telephone Workers—has demanded that the American Telephone and Telegraph company grant a 4 percent wage increase and narrow the geographic differentials in pay. Present scales range from $18 to $66 a week for men and from $13 to $31 for women, a union attorney said. A company spokesman declared A. T. & T. had offered to make increases totaling more than $2,000,000 a year.

The mediation board, meeting in full force in Washington, was concentrating on an attempt to settle the union shop dispute in so-called captive coal mines, operated by steel companies which use those mines' entire output.

John L. Lewis, president of the CIO United Mine Workers, showed no sign of yielding in his demand for a union shop, under which a member of the union after being employed for a certain period. The steel companies strongly oppose such a move. The captive mines employ about 53,000 men.

TREASURY WORKS ON TAX-PAY PLAN

Would Collect Future Income Tax In Advance From Wage Earner

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—The treasury is working hard today on a plan for collecting future income tax in advance from wage earners by taking so much each week or each month from their pay envelopes or salary checks.

Although under serious consideration, the plan has not yet been adopted. But if it is, employers will be required to deduct income taxes from pay envelopes in about the same way that they take out social security taxes now.

A decision is expected before the end of the year, so that the new collection method—if approved—could be applied to 1942 income.

The plan is getting fresh attention because of the recent disclosure of an administration goal of "mopping up" about $6,000,000,000 of so-called excess purchasing power through taxes. This would mean still heavier income taxes on small as well as big taxpayers.

If such a new tax program goes through, the experts believe that it will be impractical to try to collect between $100 and $500 from an ordinary worker in one lump, and hence it will be necessary to devise some method of putting taxes on the installment basis.

How It Works

As the plan shapes up at the moment, here's how it would work: At the beginning of the year, the boss would come to John Doe and ask him how many dependents he had for tax purposes. The boss would then look at some specially prepared table or formula and figure out John Doe's approximate income tax for the year. He would deduct a proportionate amount of this estimate from every paycheck and turn the deducted money over to the government.

At the end of the year, John Doe would make out an income tax return just as he does now, but instead of paying the full amount, he would subtract the money already deducted by his employer and pay the difference, if any. In the event the deductions have overpaid his tax, Uncle Sam would refund the difference.

Police said the demonstration was started by a group which calls itself "The Mothers of America."

Besides meeting with Archbishop Mooney, Halifax had arranged to talk here today with Bishop Frank W. Creighton, Protestant Episcopal bishop of Michigan, and other church dignitaries. A private meeting with Henry Ford also was scheduled, as well as an appearance before the convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Quaker Reserves Hand Augusta High School 19-6 Defeat

LONG PASSES AND GROUND GAINS GIVE VICTORY TO LOCALS

Salem Scores Twice In Second Quarter On Lengthy Aerials

Salem High's scrappy reserves posted a 19-6 win over a fighting Augusta eleven yesterday afternoon at Reilly stadium in a game marked by the aggressiveness of both teams.

The home team drew first blood as Dick Culbertson, standing on his 28, passed to "Flick" Ehrhman, who was downed on the Augusta three-yard line. On the next play, "Jock" Hagan plunged through the middle for the score. With Culbertson holding, Weigand kicked the extra point to make the score 7-0. In a few minutes the Quakers scored again, this time on a pass from Dick Greene to Dan Reardon, who caught the ball in the end zone. Weigand's try for the extra point was wide.

Augusta finally got a drive going in the third quarter, reaching the Salem one-yard marker. There the "boys in blue" were penalized to the six for being offside. On the next play the Salem forward wall broke through to nail the ball carrier on the nine-yard line, where the locals took over.

They were forced to punt when their drive stalled and Augusta began another march toward the Salem goal which could not be denied. An eight-yard gallop round right end accounted for the touchdown. The plunge for the point was stopped dead at the line of scrimmage by a hard-charging Quaker line.

The kick-off was received by "Hammerin' Harry" Ehrhman, who ran it back 25 yards to the Augusta 45. About a play or so later the locals pulled a bit of razzle-dazzle to score their last touchdown. The play started as an end-around, but finally wound up with "Tut" Guappone lunging the mail across after the piskin had changed hands three times on laterals. This play ended the game.

Several high-lights of the game were the general all-around play of the scrappy Quakers, the blocking of a punt by Weigand and Ellis, the catch of a pass by "Tubby" Shasteen after it had been blocked by an Augusta player, the passing and punting of Culbertson, and the aggressiveness of the Salem line.

The big thrill of the game was provided when an Augusta back returned one of Culbertson's punts 72 yards for a touchdown only to have it nullified when a 15-yard penalty was called against the Augusta team for roughing the kicker.

The Salemites generally outplayed their rivals from the first score and were thoroughly deserving of their victory.

37th Division To Play First Game On Buckeye Soil

TOLEDO, Nov. 4.—The 30-man football squad of Ohio's 37th division from Camp Shelby, Miss., plays its first game on Buckeye soil tonight in a contest with the University of Toledo Rockets in Scott Stadium.

Dotted with heavy, experienced players, the soldiers are expected to make Dr. Clarence Spears' boys earn anything they get in the encounter.

Anchoring the 200-pound average soldier line are Sgt. Harry Bolster, 240-pound former Ohio State tackle and Private Joe Fitzgerald, 235-pound former Purdue university tackle and captain.

Other linemen include Sergeant Westfall, Tampa university center; Sgt. Herb Tretnier, Ohio Northern guard; Sgt. Emory Preston, Norwalk tackle; Corp. Robert Hauser, former Ohio State guard; and Private Dave Nemeth, former Penn State guard.

Backs include Corp. William Luther former Michigan halfback; Sgt. Frank Toth of Wittenberg, Louie Disale of Toledo university; Sgt. Steve Polachek of John Carroll; Private Robert Ramshaw of Ohio university; Sgt. Frank Crockett of Baldwin-Wallace and Sgt. John Collins of Manchester college.

The coaches of the 37th division team are Capt. Ray Novotny, formerly of Ashland college and the Cleveland Rams, and Capt. Robert Ibold, former Kenyon star.

The game will climax a Defense Bond Day celebration.

Brutal Test

BOSTON—A blind man is under treatment for stab wounds. Vernon Black, 32, told police he was at the front of his home when two men jostled around him and one said: "You've been around here a long time and you're supposed to be blind. Let's see if it's so."

He was knifed in the side and back.

BOWLING RESULTS

The Fernengel Colts broke into a gallop last night and swept three games from the Fitzpatrick service keglers to move into a tie for first place with Demings in the American league. T. Reese led the Colts as he piled up a three-game total of 606 (172, 233, 201), while Deming led the ill-fated opposition with a 598 total and a high game of 227.

Demings dropped one game to the American Laundry to allow the Colts to move into first place with them by virtue of their series sweep.

Also on the first-place bandwagon were the Peoples Lumber keglers. The Lumbermen swept three from the Lease Drugs to move up with Fernengels from a second-place tie to a lead position deadlock. The Woodsmen were led by Arnold, Fieldhouse and Stacy, who all rolled over the 550 mark to aid in posting high team scores of 517 and 593, for a total of 2,737.

The Firestone Electricians took two from the Electric Furnace in the other American league contest. The Electricians' win came despite Burrell's 618 total (149, 247, 222) for the Furnacemen.

Quaker City League
The Arco Paints upset the Golden Eagles for three straight games last night in the only shutout Quaker City match. Two-game winners were:

Coy's Buicks over the Salem Polo club, Masons over the Hawk Motors, Cape Realtors over the Lape Hotel, Althouse Motors over the Bliss, Conda Engineering over the Salem Motors and the Althouse Motors over the Arco Paints.

Sheen's service took three games from the Sanitary Shippers in a postponed Federal league tilt.

Scholastic Gridders In Midst Of State's Most Sensational Scoring Race

By FRITZ HOWELL.

COLUMBUS, Nov. 4.—Ohio's high school teams stepped off the stage momentarily today to allow the football spotlight to play on the most sensational and tightest individual scoring race the state has ever witnessed.

By the slender margin of one point, Russell (Flying Express) Wolfe, Upper Sandusky's scintillating halfback, paced the pack with a 138-point total for seven games. On his heels with 137 was Don Reinhardt, Portsmouth East's 140-pound quarterback, while third place, with 129, was held by Chauncey Dover's triple-threat lumina, Jack Ley.

Wolfe scored all 26 of Upper Sandusky's points Monday to beat Marysville 28 to 12, to snatch the lead from Reinhardt, who was "held" to 18 points as Portsmouth East beat Fullerton, Ky., 27 to 7. Ley, who counted all his team's 20 points a week ago to beat Gloom, did the same thing again Friday to beat the Plains, 13 to 0. Wolfe's 26-point spurge was his second in a row.

Chauncey Dover has scored 131 points this year. Ley getting 129 of them. Tom Harris, Canton McKinley's fine Negro fullback, has 90 points for the campaign, while Bobby Rawers, Bergholtz quarterback, has 85.

Warren Falls
Warren was the only unbeaten team to fall by the wayside last week, the Presidents dropping a 21-0 tilt to Massillon's great Tigers, who rolled to their 40th straight victory on a defeat of Warren's downfield left 15 teams in the select class, three of them beating untried goal lines.

The "clean" contingent, with the weekend scores:
Portsmouth East (27, Fullerton, Ky., 7); Upper Sandusky (26, Marysville 12); Chauncey Dover (13, The Plains 0); Canton McKinley (27, Youngstown Woodrow Wilson 7); Cleveland Collinwood (13, East Tech 0); Xenia O. S. & S. O. Glenview Wins
Probably the most satisfying conquest of the weekend was the 13-0 win chalked up by Glenview over Wickliffe—the first victory in four years by that club, which last year wanted to give up football but succumbed to alumni pressure to "stick to it."

SPORT CHATTER

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Local sports writers are whooping it up for a Fordham vs. Texas bowl game now that they feel sure the Rams won't lose a game. The reason isn't that Jimmy Crowley has enlisted their aid in getting the bowl dough (as one western paper suggested). They really think the Rams are good and they'd like to spend New Year's day in a warm climate.

It cost Steve Owen a free lunch when the Giants lost to the Cards Sunday. Instead of making his usual appearance at the grid writers' gathering, where he's on the cuff, Steve called for the season's first Monday practice. Ditto for Frank Leahy, who promised to give the Notre Dame boys a day off if they beat Army. Eddie (The Mouse) Munnell, the White Sox publicity director, has resigned to become a sports writer on Chicago's new morning

Corn started 3/4-1 cent down, December 77, May 83-82 1/2, and then held around the low level.

GERMANS LAUNCH NEW ROSTOV DRIVE

Tank-Led Nazi Divisions Reported in Violent New Assault

(By Associated Press)

Tank-led German troops were reported to have opened a violent new offensive today against Rostov-on-Don, gateway to the Caucasus oil fields, while Axis forces pouring into the Crimean peninsula were declared to be ready for a frontal attack "within a very few hours" on Russia's great Black sea naval base of Sevastopol.

Nazi field batteries have already begun shelling Sevastopol, it was reported.

Soviet front-line dispatches said the German onslaught against Rostov, directed by the veteran tank army commander, Colonel-General Ewald Von Kleist, was attacking from several directions.

At one point, the Russians admitted, the Germans have succeeded in driving a wedge "several miles long" into Red army lines, losing 400 men killed, 15 tanks and 20 field guns. The thrust now has been halted, the Russians said.

Within 10 Miles of City

Latest advices put the Germans within 10 miles off the big Don river port, a city of 520,000, most of whose civilian population was withdrawn last week.

Supported by Red warplanes, Soviet troops repulsed two attacks by Italian soldiers, it was reported, and hurled back a savage drive by three tank-paced German infantry divisions in fighting around the beleaguered city.

On the central front, Soviet dispatches said German troops in the outskirts of Tula, key munitions center 100 miles south of Moscow, had begun to shell the town.

Nazi troops broke through Red defense lines at one point, these dispatches said, but failed to reach the center of the city.

97 FEARED LOST IN REUBEN JAMES

Navy Gives Nation Grim Accounting of Battle of The Atlantic

ordered the armed services to keep the sea lanes open to North America, twelve other men have lost their lives. Eleven were killed in the U-boat attack on the destroyer Kearny, and one army flier with the Iceland task force met death when his warplane crashed.

If the indicated Reuben James losses prove correct, the list of men who have perished in line of duty will total 121 since Aug. 19, the day the army flier was killed.

The Reuben James casualty breakdown showed that she was carrying 142 officers and men in her crew—a heavier complement than originally believed. The normal complement for a destroyer of her type is 122, but she was operating under virtual wartime conditions when crews are usually larger.

The navy made public the list of the destroyer's known dead—W. H. Merrell, a fireman, first class, of Ardmore, Tenn., and D. R. Olinstead, fireman, second class, of Olean, N. Y.—and of the 45 survivors. The names of the enlisted men unaccounted for were not released. The names of the seven missing officers were made public last Friday, when the number of enlisted men survivors was placed tentatively at 44.

The Reuben James was on convoy duty when she was torpedoed, and that fact at first gave rise to hopes that the casualties might not be heavy. It was thought then that many of the men might have been picked up by other ships in the convoy, but that their rescue had not been reported because the ships were observing radio silence in U-boat infested waters. Many times in the past survivors of sinkings have been listed as missing for several days until the ship rescuing them reached the safety of port.

Hopes Apparently Dashed

The whole tenor of the navy's announcement, however, was calculated to dash such hopes in this case. It was considered significant that the communique listed only one more survivor than the number given last Friday in the preliminary report of the torpedoing. Moreover, the fact that casualties had been reported in detail apparently was evidence that the need for radio silence had ended, so far as this particular convoy was concerned.

Ironically, the announcement of the heavy navy casualties came less than a dozen hours after the state department revealed that Germany had refused to reply to a request for damages in the case of the Robin Moor—the first United States merchant ship to be sunk by a U-boat this year.

Although no lives were lost, the sinking of the Robin Moor in the south Atlantic on May 21 was one of the incidents that helped contribute to shoot-on-sight policy finally adopted in mid-September for the navy's patrol of defensive waters.

The Robin Moor request was transmitted to the German charge d'affaires, Hans Thomsen, on Sept. 19. Earlier he had been given a copy of President Roosevelt's special message to congress on the Robin Moor sinking to forward to his government. In his message Mr. Roosevelt charged the Nazi leaders with piracy and ruthless terrorism in their U-boat tactics.

Thomsen, the state department revealed, sent the state department an answer on Sept. 26, saying that "the two communications made are not such as to lead to an appropriate reply by my government."

The state department did not indicate what further action, if any, was contemplated in the case.

men, now given up as lost, two men badly wounded and eight slightly injured. The Kearny was on convoy duty at the time of the torpedoing, about 350 miles south and west of Iceland.

First Ship Sunk

On the night of Oct. 30-31 the Reuben James, like the Kearny on convoy duty, was torpedoed and apparently went down rapidly. The first American warship actually to be sunk in this war. She had 142 men on board and of those the navy department announced only last night that it held little hope for the rescue of seven officers and 98 enlisted seamen who had not been accounted for.

The navy report also showed that one man died shortly after being rescued, that the body of another man was recovered, and that in addition to those two the others actually accounted for numbered eight injured and 37 uninjured.

Characteristic of all the warship attacks is that they have occurred in a relatively small area of the North Atlantic west and to some extent south of Iceland.

The Reuben James' heavy losses shocked the capital which had been waiting anxiously since Friday for news, but the navy indicated it did not expect the total to diminish.

"TELEPHONE PEOPLE ARE SO HELPFUL"

In thanking us for the way a young woman in the business office handled a service matter for her, a customer wrote: "Telephone People are so Helpful."

Ohio Bell men and women—all 11,000 of us—strive to deserve such a compliment. What the young woman did was all in a day's work but it was in line with the telephone tradition of helpfulness.

Because of the fast growing demands of the government and industry in the national emergency we never have been so busy, but we never will be too busy to serve you with courtesy. We will try our level best to meet all your requirements. However, the time might come when we cannot connect your telephone when you want it, or put through your long distance calls as quickly as you would like to have them. Then you will know the delay was due to the demands made on the service in the program to make our country and its institutions secure.
